Scholars in the turn-of-the-century French sociological tradition came up with yet different reasons to push magic to the margins of spiritual life. Émile Durkheim, one of the key figures of the early social science of religion, defined religion as a set of beliefs and practices concerning sacred things and shared by a moral community: a 'Church'.

The complete continuity between magic and religion has been a postulate of modern anthropology at least since early 1930s. [c] [11]

The perspective of modern anthropology towards religion is the projection idea , a methodological approach which assumes that every religion is created by the human community that worships it, that "creative activity ascribed to God is projected from man". [12]

Sir James George Frazer OM FRS FRSE FBA was a Scottish social anthropologist and folklorist influential in the early stages of the modern studies of mythology and comparative religion. His most famous work, The Golden Bough, documents and details the similarities among magical and religious beliefs around the world. Frazer posited that human
