The Boy Who Loved Too Much is narrative journalism at its finest. Like The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks, the book weaves scientific background into a compelling true story. Unlike Henrietta Lacks, here there is no author intrusion. Latson was a fly on the wall during the tumultuous coming of age for Eli, a boy with Williams syndrome.

Once, there was a boy who loved to read. He read everything he could get his hands on, and loved going to his favorite book store. One day, the boy realized he had read everything the store had to offer. He confronted the owner, and asked him if he had anything the boy had never checked out. The owner said why, yes, I do, and pulled out a book called 'Death'. He gladly sold it to the boy at a ...
